[1] Any amount of money (in cash, cheque or draft)

If the total amount of money received by an individual from one or more persons during a previous year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, the whole of such amount will be chargeable to tax. If you receive Rs. 40,000 as gift from anybody, there is no tax liability, but if you receive another Rs. 20,000 in the same year, you have to pay tax on the entire Rs. 60,000, because you have exceeded the limit of Rs. 50,000.

Now this Rs. 60000 will be added to your total income and taxed according to your tax slab. Suppose you are in 20% of tax slab and by adding Rs. 60000 you come in 30% tax slab, you would be taxed accordingly.

[2] Gift Tax on Immovable property in India without consideration

If any immovable property (without any consideration) is received, the stamp duty value of which exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, then the stamp duty value will be chargeable to tax in each such transaction.

[3] Immovable property for a consideration which is less than the stamp value

If any immovable property is received for a consideration which is less than the stamp value (stamp duty value exceeds 105% of consideration) of the property by an amount exceeding Rs. 50,000/-, then the difference between stamp duty value and consideration is chargeable to tax in every such transaction.

[4] Gift Tax on Movable property in India without consideration

If aggregate fair market value of movable properties such as shares and securities, jewellery, archaeological collections, drawings, paintings or any work of art received without consideration during a previous year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, the whole of aggregate fair market value of movable properties will be chargeable to tax.

[5] Movable property for a consideration which is less than the fair market value

If movable property such as shares and securities, jewellery, archaeological collections, drawings, paintings or any work of art is received for a consideration which is less than the aggregate fair market value of the property by an amount exceeding Rs. 50,000/-, then the difference between aggregate fair market value and consideration is chargeable to gift tax.
